Preface

We are pleased to announce that “The 11th Biennial Meeting of the Society for Free Radical Research-Asia (SFRR-Asia) and Chinese National Conference of Redox Biology and Medicine 2024” will be held in Beijing, China from October 21 to 23, 2024. The conference is hosted by the Society for Redox Biology and Medicine Branch of Biophysical Society of China and The Material Biology and Intelligent Medicine Branch of Biophysical Society of China.

This conference will hold the "Redox future perspective forum" for the first time. The conference invites numerous well-known experts in the field of oxidation-reduction, including over 40 international speakers and 150 international attendees, to share the latest research results on the theme of "Precision oxidation-reduction biology and medicine in the new era: from basic research to intervention in aging and disease", and to look forward to the development direction of the oxidation-reduction discipline, promoting the development of the oxidation-reduction field!

This conference will open an Early career researcher section for junior researchers to exchange ideas. Over 40 young researchers will be selected to give oral presentations, while over 60 academic young researchers will be selected to give flash presentations on their achievements, promoting the voice of junior researchers and showcasing their talents at international conferences. The section will be dedicated to creating a stage for young researchers to fully collide and exchange ideas!

This conference will set up generous awards! The Young Researcher Award (YIA) is selected by the International Committee of the Asian Free Radical Association. In addition, a large number of oral presentations, flash talks, oral presentations, and outstanding poster awards, etc., will be selected by the academic committee based on the submitted abstracts and awarded. We fully encourage outstanding young scholars to actively participate in oral presentations, flash talks, and poster exhibitions. There are many opportunities available, and we welcome everyone to actively participate in and exchange the latest scientific research achievements on the international stage, showcasing the charm of junior researchers!

We sincerely invite you to attend this knowledge feast. We warmly welcome the arrival of every scholar, and we hope that every scholar can draw new nourishment, enlighten their minds, and work together to create a better future through this fusion of wisdom. We look forward to opening a new page for the development of everyone's scientific research career.

Looking forward to meeting you in Beijing under the sunshine of October!

Welcome message

On behalf of the organizing committee, I am honored to welcome you to “The 11th Biennial Meeting of the Society for Free Radical Research-Asia (SFRR-Asia) and the Chinese National Conference of Redox Biology and Medicine 2024” that will be held in Beijing, China from Oct. 21 to 23, 2024.

After two decades of ten past SFRR-Asia biennial meetings, we are marching into a new era to explore redox biology and medicine at precision, mechanistic, and in vivo levels with innovative technology and multiple discipline collaborations. The coming SFRR-Asia 2024, with the theme “The new era of precision redox biology and medicine: from basic research to the intervention of aging and diseases,” will provide a great opportunity to embrace the updates on state-of-the-art research in the field. There will be broad topics concerning three aspects: Basic research on redox biology and medicine, redox homeostasis in aging and diseases, and precision redox intervention and health management. The scientific program will include diverse communications: cutting-edge technology workshops, plenary lectures, invited lectures, oral presentations (some selected from the submitted abstracts), flash talks, poster presentations, meet the editors, industry-academy communication, redox future perspective forum. It's exciting that the Young Investigators Awards (YIA) and Outstanding Poster Presentation Awards will be selected.

I sincerely invite you to join the 11th SFRR-Asia biennial meeting and hope every participant will benefit from this meeting in exchanging ideas, stimulating collaboration, developing friendships, and enjoy Chinese culture and exciting sightseeing in Beijing. Wish the 11th SFRR-Asia a remarkable start for the next two decades. I look forward to welcoming you in Beijing in October.
